1 Not Financial Advice

Neurolith gives automated analysis for information only. Nothing it produces is financial, investment, legal or tax advice, or a recommendation to buy, sell or hold anything. Neurolith is not a licensed financial adviser, broker or dealer and does not know your personal situation.

2 Memecoins Are Extremely Risky

Memecoins and other small crypto tokens are highly volatile and largely unregulated. Prices can move sharply within minutes, liquidity can disappear, and tokens can be abandoned, rugged or go to zero. You can lose all the money you put in.

3 Calls Are Probabilities, Not Promises

Each call shows the probability of buy, hold and sell outcomes and a confidence score. A call is expected to be wrong some of the time: a 60% call is wrong about four times in ten. Past accuracy does not guarantee future results.

4 Models and Data Have Limits

- Market data comes from third-party sources and can be delayed, incomplete or wrong.
- AI models can make mistakes and can be fooled, including by wash trading and deliberate manipulation.
- Some parts of Neurolith are in early preview and are still being trained and tested.
- A call reflects the market at the moment it ran; conditions change quickly.

5 You Decide and You Are Responsible

Every trading decision is yours. Do your own research, never trade more than you can afford to lose, and consider getting advice from a licensed professional. You are responsible for your results and for any taxes and legal obligations where you live.

6 Keep Your Wallet Safe

Neurolith never needs your wallet, keys, seed phrase or funds, and never asks for them. Anyone who does, in Discord or elsewhere, is a scammer.
